Paper 2 Directed Writing and Composition For examination from 2027

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 80

Converted

This mark scheme accompanies a converted question paper: Cambridge IGCSE First Language English 0500/21 October/November 2024, restructured to the 2027–2029 Paper 2 format. The reading texts in the insert are unchanged.

Question 1(b) is the source directed writing task, rescaled from 15 reading + 25 writing to 10 reading + 25 writing; its indicative content is transferred unchanged. Question 1(a) is new to this conversion and its indicative content has been written for it. Section B is unchanged.

Level descriptor tables are reproduced from the official 2027 specimen mark scheme (0500/02/SP/27).

This document consists of 12 printed pages.

Generic Marking Principles

All examiners must apply these general marking principles when marking candidate responses. Examiners must apply them alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptions for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme must also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptions for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptions for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptions.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however, the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptions in mind.

English & Media-Specific Marking Principles

(To be read in conjunction with the Generic Marking Principles (and requiring further guidance on how to place marks within levels))

Components using level descriptions:

- We use level descriptions as a guide to broad understanding of the qualities normally expected of, or typical of, work in a level.
- Level descriptions are a means of general guidance, and should not be interpreted as hurdle statements.
- Where indicative content notes are supplied for a question, these are not a prescription of required content, and must not be treated as such. Alternative correct points and unexpected answers in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the knowledge and skills demonstrated.
- While we may have legitimate expectations as to the ground most answers may occupy, we must at all times be prepared to meet candidates on their chosen ground, provided it is relevant ground (e.g. clearly related to and derived from a relevant passage/text and meeting the mark scheme requirements for the question).

Components using point-based marking:

Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term).

b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct.

c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons …).

d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used incorrectly.)

e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities.

f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).

g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion).

Notes on this converted mark scheme

Question 1(a) is generated. The 2027 Paper 2 assesses R4, which the source paper did not, so nothing maps to 1(a) from the original mark scheme. The question was tested for answerability against the extract alone before its indicative content was written. It is anchored to Text B paragraph 6 (lines 21–27), where the headteacher's promises for the programme sit alongside self-promotion and a classical-only repertoire, giving candidates an attitude to evaluate rather than simply report.

Overlap with 1(b). Two 1(b) evaluation points (school orchestras may be more for the school's benefit; some people have a narrow view of music) can also be reached from the 1(a) extract. In 1(a) they are credited as evaluation of the headteacher's attitude, supported by the language of the extract; in 1(b) they are credited when applied in the article. The specimen shows the same kind of overlap.

Question 1(b) mark change. Reading falls from 15 to 10; writing is unchanged at 25. The task, the bullets, the word count and the indicative reading content are unchanged. 'some people start leaning instruments' is reproduced exactly as printed in the 2024 mark scheme.

Rubric wording. The 1(b) mark line uses the specimen wording ('Up to 10 marks are available for reading and up to 25 marks for writing'). Section A is headed 'Directed Writing' and Section B follows the specimen layout; the four titles are unchanged.

Insert length. The two texts run to 752 words, above the 650-word guide for the 2027 Paper 2 insert. The insert has deliberately not been trimmed, because cutting it would break the line references used in 1(a).

Table substitutions. Table A is the specimen Paper 2 Table A, generalised from the named speaker in the specimen task to 'the writer'; here the writer is the headteacher giving the talk. Tables B, C, D and E are reproduced unchanged.

© Cambridge University Press & Assessment 2024

Note: All Examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated. Nonetheless, the content must be clearly related to and derived from the passage.

Section A: Directed Writing

Question 1

Question 1(a) tests the following reading assessment objectives (5 marks):

R3 analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions, using appropriate support from the text

R4 demonstrate understanding of how writers achieve effects and influence readers.

Question 1(b) tests the following reading assessment objectives (10 marks):

R1 demonstrate understanding of explicit meanings

R2 demonstrate understanding of implicit meanings and attitudes

R3 analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions, using appropriate support from the text

R5 select and use information for specific purposes.

This question also tests the following writing assessment objectives (25 marks):

W1 articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined

W2 organise and structure facts, ideas and opinions for effect

W3 use a range of vocabulary and sentence structures appropriate to context

W4 use language appropriate to purpose and to engage the audience

W5 make accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar.

Question	Answer	Marks
1(a)	Reread this extract from Text B: Our school music programme will start that journey. Our children will learn the fundamentals of classical music, its history and its practice, through a series of inspiring talks from the celebrated orchestral conductor (and former student of our school) Simon Chi. They will be exposed to, and learn to love, our rich musical heritage through their weekly public performances of opera and music from ballet, demonstrating their newly acquired skills to a wider audience. They may even take part in tours further afield to publicise our wonderful school. This experience will remain a part of the fabric of their lives and colour their experience of music for ever after. Use your own words to evaluate the headteacher's attitude to the school's new music programme. Give details from the text to justify your answer. Use the Marking Criteria for Question 1(a) (Table A, Reading). Relevant ideas might include: • enthusiastic / idealistic: (det. start that journey, a series of inspiring talks, learn to love) • traditional / narrow view of music: (det. fundamentals of classical music, our rich musical heritage, opera and music from ballet) • proud / boastful about the school's connections: (det. the celebrated orchestral conductor, former student of our school) • self-interested / promotional: (det. tours further afield to publicise our wonderful school, to a wider audience) • demanding / ambitious for the children: (det. weekly public performances, demonstrating their newly acquired skills) • certain / overconfident about the lasting benefits: (det. They will be exposed to, will remain a part of the fabric of their lives, colour their experience of music for ever after)	5

Table A, Reading

Use the following table to give a mark out of 5 for Reading. This question tests assessment objectives R3 and R4.

Level	Marks	Description
3	4–5	Clear understanding of the writer's attitude with relevant support from the text. (R3, R4)
2	2–3	Some understanding of the writer's attitude with some supporting detail. (R3, R4)
1	1	Limited understanding of the writer's attitude. (R3, R4)
0	0	No creditable content.

Question	Answer	Marks
1(b)	Write a magazine article for young people with the title, 'Music matters'. In your article you should: • evaluate the views, attitudes and opinions given in both texts • give your own views, based on what you have read, about the best ways to inspire young people to become involved with music. Base your article on what you have read in both texts, but be careful to use your own words. Address both of the bullet points. Write about 250 to 350 words. Up to 10 marks are available for reading and up to 25 marks for writing. Notes on task: Responses might use the following ideas: Text A: • playing an instrument can bring joy • learning to play well can give you a sense of personal achievement/pride • some people start leaning instruments when they are very young • some children dislike instrument lessons and want to quit • parents want their children to be able to play an instrument • you can teach yourself to play an instrument/learn from friends • some people make a living from music Text B • learning to play an instrument teaches the value of hard work and perseverance • playing an instrument in a concert is a valuable learning experience • some children learn the classical tradition in school • learning to play music enables connections with others • children should spend less time on computers	35

Question	Answer	Marks
1(b)	Possible evaluation of ideas: • parents/schools need to consider children's individual needs and preferences to inspire them to learn • there are other equally enriching areas of study • some people have a narrow view of music/consider some music more valuable than others • school orchestras may be more for the school's benefit • forcing children to learn a specific genre/instrument can stifle hidden talent/crush individuality • forcing children to learn music creates resentment and is therefore counter-productive • finding their own musical path means children will work harder to learn music/only learning for parents' sake means they won't develop a passion for it • the mental effects of performing could be traumatic • young people are engaged with the music they like • there is more than one way to be creative with music/internet is a creative forum for music

Marking criteria for Section B

Table D, Composition: Content and structure

Level	Marks	Description
6	14–16	• General — Content is highly focused on the task, complex and engaging. (W1) Structure is secure, well balanced and carefully managed for deliberate effect. (W2) • Descriptive — Creates well-defined and developed ideas and images in response to the prompt to offer a convincing overall picture. Uses features of descriptive writing such as close observation, effective use of figurative language and varieties of focus. • Narrative — Crafts a well-defined and strongly developed plot in response to the prompt. Uses features of fiction writing such as description, characterisation and effective climax, with convincing details.
5	11–13	• General — Content is well focused on the task, developed and mostly engaging. (W1) Structure is well managed, with some choices made for deliberate effect. (W2) • Descriptive — Offers some well-chosen images and details in response to the prompt to give a mostly convincing picture. • Narrative — The plot is defined and developed with features of fiction writing such as description, characterisation, climax and details.
4	8–10	• General — Content is focused on the task with some development. (W1) Structure is competently managed. (W2) • Descriptive — A selection of partially effective ideas, images and details. • Narrative — The plot is relevant and cohesive; begins to use features such as characterisation and setting of scene.
3	5–7	• General — Content shows some focus on the task, is straightforward and briefly developed. (W1) Structure is mostly organised but may not always be effective. (W2) • Descriptive — A series of generally relevant details, with limited use of the features of descriptive writing. • Narrative — The plot is straightforward, with limited use of the features of narrative writing.
2	3–4	• General — Content lacks focus and is simple; ideas and events may be limited. (W1) Structure is partially organised. (W2) • Descriptive — Occasionally relevant with limited detail. • Narrative — Events are only partially linked and/or lack clarity.
1	1–2	• General — Content is occasionally relevant or clear. (W1) Structure is limited and ineffective. (W2) • Descriptive — The description is unclear. • Narrative — The narrative lacks coherence.
0	0	No creditable content.
