Paper 2 Directed Writing and Composition For examination from 2027

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 80

Converted

This mark scheme accompanies a converted question paper: Cambridge IGCSE First Language English 0500/23 October/November 2024, restructured to the 2027–2029 Paper 2 format. The reading texts in the insert are unchanged.

Question 1(b) is the source directed writing task, rescaled from 15 reading + 25 writing to 10 reading + 25 writing; its indicative content is transferred unchanged. Question 1(a) is new to this conversion and its indicative content has been written for it. Section B is unchanged.

Level descriptor tables are reproduced from the official 2027 specimen mark scheme (0500/02/SP/27).

This document consists of 13 printed pages.

Generic Marking Principles

All examiners must apply these general marking principles when marking candidate responses. Examiners must apply them alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptions for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme must also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptions for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptions for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptions.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however, the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptions in mind.

English & Media-Specific Marking Principles

(To be read in conjunction with the Generic Marking Principles (and requiring further guidance on how to place marks within levels))

Components using level descriptions:

- We use level descriptions as a guide to broad understanding of the qualities normally expected of, or typical of, work in a level.
- Level descriptions are a means of general guidance, and should not be interpreted as hurdle statements.
- Where indicative content notes are supplied for a question, these are not a prescription of required content, and must not be treated as such. Alternative correct points and unexpected answers in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the knowledge and skills demonstrated.
- While we may have legitimate expectations as to the ground most answers may occupy, we must at all times be prepared to meet candidates on their chosen ground, provided it is relevant ground (e.g. clearly related to and derived from a relevant passage/text and meeting the mark scheme requirements for the question).

Components using point-based marking:

Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term).

b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct.

c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons …).

d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used incorrectly.)

e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities.

f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).

g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion).

Notes on this converted mark scheme

Question 1(a) is generated. The 2027 Paper 2 assesses R4, which the source paper did not, so nothing maps to 1(a) from the original mark scheme. The question was tested for answerability against the extract alone before its indicative content was written. It is anchored to Text B paragraph 3 (lines 14–21), where the blogger tries to live on cash for a day: a determined experiment, a blunt verdict and a concession to the letting agent lead to dismay at her daughter's savings, giving candidates a mixed attitude to evaluate.

Overlap with 1(b). Two Text B ideas in the 1(b) indicative content (high-priced items cannot be paid in cash; banks charge for depositing cash) also appear in the 1(a) extract. In 1(a) candidates are credited for evaluating the writer's attitude to them, supported by the language of the extract; in 1(b) the ideas are credited when applied in the speech. The specimen shows the same kind of overlap.

Question 1(b) mark change. Reading falls from 15 to 10; writing is unchanged at 25. The task, the bullets, the word count and the indicative reading content are unchanged, including the three groups of evaluation points. 'people on lower oncomes' and 'good for the area to be seen a modern' are reproduced exactly as printed in the 2024 mark scheme.

Rubric wording. The 1(b) mark line uses the specimen wording ('Up to 10 marks are available for reading and up to 25 marks for writing'). Section A is headed 'Directed Writing' and Section B follows the specimen layout; the four titles are unchanged.

Insert length. The two texts run to 718 words, above the 650-word guide for the 2027 Paper 2 insert. The insert has deliberately not been trimmed, because cutting it would break the line references used in 1(a).

Table substitutions. Table A is the specimen Paper 2 Table A, generalised from the named speaker in the specimen task to 'the writer'. Tables B, C, D and E are reproduced unchanged.

© Cambridge University Press & Assessment 2024

Note: All Examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated. Nonetheless, the content must be clearly related to and derived from the passage.

Section A: Directed Writing

Question 1

Question 1(a) tests the following reading assessment objectives (5 marks):

R3 analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions, using appropriate support from the text

R4 demonstrate understanding of how writers achieve effects and influence readers.

Question 1(b) tests the following reading assessment objectives (10 marks):

R1 demonstrate understanding of explicit meanings

R2 demonstrate understanding of implicit meanings and attitudes

R3 analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions, using appropriate support from the text

R5 select and use information for specific purposes.

This question also tests the following writing assessment objectives (25 marks):

W1 articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined

W2 organise and structure facts, ideas and opinions for effect

W3 use a range of vocabulary and sentence structures appropriate to context

W4 use language appropriate to purpose and to engage the audience

W5 make accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar.

Question	Answer	Marks
1(a)	Reread this extract from Text B: Today, tucking my bank card firmly away, I decide to see how far real cash will get me. Not far. Any high-priced items it seems are strictly cashless affairs: my rent and telephone bill among them. I meet with baffled expressions and some resistance from the assistant at the agency I rent my apartment from. 'I can't remember the last time we received a cash payment,' she says. 'We don't like keeping cash in the office, we don't have a safe, and banks charge you for depositing cash.' I see her point. Later, as my daughter cracks open her money box and counts out her small stash of coins, I realise that the cost of depositing her savings into her bank account this month will wipe them out. Use your own words to evaluate the writer's attitude to paying with cash. Give details from the text to justify your answer. Use the Marking Criteria for Question 1(a) (Table A, Reading). Relevant ideas might include: • determined / curious / willing to test it out: (det. tucking my bank card firmly away, I decide to see how far real cash will get me) • wry / blunt / resigned: (det. Not far., strictly cashless affairs) • uncomfortable / feels treated as odd for using cash: (det. baffled expressions, some resistance) • fair-minded / sees the business's side: (det. I see her point) • dismayed / feels cash users are penalised: (det. the cost of depositing her savings, will wipe them out) • tender / sympathetic towards the daughter's efforts: (det. cracks open her money box, small stash of coins)	5

Table A, Reading

Use the following table to give a mark out of 5 for Reading. This question tests assessment objectives R3 and R4.

Level	Marks	Description
3	4–5	Clear understanding of the writer's attitude with relevant support from the text. (R3, R4)
2	2–3	Some understanding of the writer's attitude with some supporting detail. (R3, R4)
1	1	Limited understanding of the writer's attitude. (R3, R4)
0	0	No creditable content.

Question	Answer	Marks
1(b)	There is a proposal for your local area to become cash-free. You want to share your views on this proposal at a meeting of local residents. Write a speech giving your views on whether or not the proposal should go ahead. In your speech you should: • evaluate the ideas, attitudes and opinions given in both texts • consider some of the ways that being cash-free might affect individuals, businesses and the wider community. Base your speech on what you have read in both texts, but be careful to use your own words. Address both of the bullet points. Write about 250 to 350 words. Up to 10 marks are available for reading and up to 25 marks for writing. Notes on task: Responses might use the following ideas: Text A: Paying digitally – will paying by cash soon be a thing of the past? • fewer people generally are using cash • many cities around the world are going cashless • cash is outdated • people are happy to pay for everyday items/services using technology • people on lower oncomes cannot easily get bank accounts and depend on using cash • cash works for transactions between all kinds of people • some big businesses only accept digital payment already • discounts offered for paying digitally for some services • some cultures/ communities don't want to go cashless/cash free • can control spending more if using cash • paying digitally leaves a trail Text B: Do you still use cash? • use cash less frequently now • easier to spend money by card/digitally • good for children to use cash – maths skills/ learn value of money • some people carry cash in case of emergency when not carrying usual cards/phone • people save up by collecting small change/coins • there are already some things you can't pay by cash – such as rent/more expensive items • banks charge for depositing cash	35

Question	Answer	Marks
1(b)	Possible implications and evaluation of ideas: Text A: • cash is still legal tender so refusing to take it is not lawful or fair • people having less/no real cash in their pockets could cause problems for small traders who rely on cash sales • charity donations will fall if people have less cash/small change in their pockets • buskers rely on people's small change/visible collection of money in front of them to encourage others to give • when collecting on the street charities/buskers can use digital technology too – possibly easier and safer for example • if homeless person needs help, better to offer to pay for food/drink since wouldn't be able to use cash in many places anyway • easier for some people to use digital technology than others – for example some (older/rural?) people may be less confident. Some people are left out/left behind • big business is trying to force/encourage digital payment as it is easier for them – discounts will disappear once everyone pays that way • can physically see cash being spent so helps to budget – cards are too easy to use without a sense of what is being spent • easier to see what people are earning/spending if all is digital – better for authorities e.g. harder to avoid paying taxes/intrusive for individuals e.g. get bombarded with promotional emails and messages • big retailers only interested in making/increasing profit – selling to younger people as the market of the future – what about those who don't have access (young/older) Text B: • too easy to spend lots of money digitally without realising it • pressure to spend on the spur of the moment whether by cash or by card • children are not really learning about cash through pocket money as someone gives it you/can pester parents to buy you things – why teach children to use cash if future is digital? • reassuring to have physical cash – just in case – technology can break/might be miles from anywhere • do not miss small change – a good way to save up • keeping cash on a business premise can be a security risk • it can be expensive to pay cash into a bank/means not worth taking or saving it in the first place Evaluation in relation to local area may include: • inevitable future – good for the area to be seen a modern OR should guard traditions and avoid loss of character/culture • will need to support vulnerable groups/educate those who are less familiar with tech • security risks of tech too – whose responsibility will that be • how can you force people/stop them using cash anyway – they will just do it and not say • may drive people away/stop visitors coming

Marking criteria for Section A Question 1(b)

Table B, Writing

Use the following table to give a mark out of 25 for writing.

Level	Marks	Description
6	22–25	• Highly effective style capable of conveying subtle meaning. (W1) • Carefully structured for benefit of the reader. (W2) • Purposefully selected vocabulary, precisely used. (W3) • Highly effective use of language for audience and purpose. (W4) • Spelling, punctuation and grammar almost always accurate. (W5)
5	18–21	• Effective style. (W1) • Secure overall structure, organised to help the reader. (W2) • Well-chosen vocabulary, used with some precision. (W3) • Effective use of language for audience and purpose. (W4) • Spelling, punctuation and grammar mostly accurate, with occasional minor errors. (W5)
4	14–17	• Sometimes effective style. (W1) • Ideas generally well sequenced. (W2) • Uses a range of appropriate vocabulary. (W3) • Sometimes effective use of language for audience and purpose. (W4) • Spelling, punctuation and grammar generally accurate though with some errors. (W5)
3	10–13	• Inconsistent style, expression sometimes awkward but meaning clear. (W1) • Relies on the sequence of the original text. (W2) • Vocabulary is simple, limited in range or reliant on the original text. (W3) • Some awareness of audience and purpose. (W4) • Frequent errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar, sometimes affecting communication. (W5)
2	6–9	• Limited style. (W1) • Limited evidence of sequencing. (W2) • Limited vocabulary or words/phrases copied from the original text. (W3) • Limited awareness of audience and purpose. (W4) • Persistent errors of spelling, punctuation and grammar, occasionally impeding communication. (W5)
1	1–5	• Expression unclear. (W1) • Very limited sequencing of ideas. (W2) • Very limited vocabulary or copying from the original text. (W3) • Very limited awareness of audience and purpose. (W4) • Persistent errors in spelling, punctuation and grammar impede communication. (W5)

Marking criteria for Section B

Table D, Composition: Content and structure

Level	Marks	Description
6	14–16	• General — Content is highly focused on the task, complex and engaging. (W1) Structure is secure, well balanced and carefully managed for deliberate effect. (W2) • Descriptive — Creates well-defined and developed ideas and images in response to the prompt to offer a convincing overall picture. Uses features of descriptive writing such as close observation, effective use of figurative language and varieties of focus. • Narrative — Crafts a well-defined and strongly developed plot in response to the prompt. Uses features of fiction writing such as description, characterisation and effective climax, with convincing details.
5	11–13	• General — Content is well focused on the task, developed and mostly engaging. (W1) Structure is well managed, with some choices made for deliberate effect. (W2) • Descriptive — Offers some well-chosen images and details in response to the prompt to give a mostly convincing picture. • Narrative — The plot is defined and developed with features of fiction writing such as description, characterisation, climax and details.
4	8–10	• General — Content is focused on the task with some development. (W1) Structure is competently managed. (W2) • Descriptive — A selection of partially effective ideas, images and details. • Narrative — The plot is relevant and cohesive; begins to use features such as characterisation and setting of scene.
3	5–7	• General — Content shows some focus on the task, is straightforward and briefly developed. (W1) Structure is mostly organised but may not always be effective. (W2) • Descriptive — A series of generally relevant details, with limited use of the features of descriptive writing. • Narrative — The plot is straightforward, with limited use of the features of narrative writing.
2	3–4	• General — Content lacks focus and is simple; ideas and events may be limited. (W1) Structure is partially organised. (W2) • Descriptive — Occasionally relevant with limited detail. • Narrative — Events are only partially linked and/or lack clarity.
1	1–2	• General — Content is occasionally relevant or clear. (W1) Structure is limited and ineffective. (W2) • Descriptive — The description is unclear. • Narrative — The narrative lacks coherence.
0	0	No creditable content.
