MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 80

Converted

This mark scheme accompanies a converted question paper: Cambridge IGCSE First Language English 0500/11 May/June 2025, restructured to the 2027–2029 Paper 1 format. The reading texts in the insert are unchanged.

Where a question has been carried over, the indicative content is transferred unchanged, because the text has not changed and the creditable points have not changed. Questions marked generated are new and their indicative content has been written for this conversion.

Level descriptor tables are reproduced unchanged from the official 2027 specimen mark scheme (0500/01/SP/27). Conversion decisions are recorded in the note on page 4.

Generic Marking Principles

All examiners must apply these general marking principles when marking candidate responses. Examiners must apply them alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptions for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme must also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptions for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptions for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptions.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however, the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptions in mind.

English & Media-Specific Marking Principles

(To be read in conjunction with the Generic Marking Principles (and requiring further guidance on how to place marks within levels))

Components using level descriptions:

- We use level descriptions as a guide to broad understanding of the qualities normally expected of, or typical of, work in a level.
- Level descriptions are a means of general guidance, and should not be interpreted as hurdle statements.
- Where indicative content notes are supplied for a question, these are not a prescription of required content, and must not be treated as such. Alternative correct points and unexpected answers in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the knowledge and skills demonstrated.
- While we may have legitimate expectations as to the ground most answers may occupy, we must at all times be prepared to meet candidates on their chosen ground, provided it is relevant ground (e.g. clearly related to and derived from a relevant passage/text and meeting the mark scheme requirements for the question).

Components using point-based marking:

Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term).

b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct.

c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons …).

d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used incorrectly.)

e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities.

f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).

g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion).

Notes on this converted mark scheme

Question 1 order. Sub-parts run in the order of their anchors in Text A. The R3 item on why burying treasure was reasonable (¶2) becomes 1(c), between the carried ‘own words’ pair and the ¶3 questions. The R4 item on ‘naive’ (¶3) joins carried old 1(c) under 1(d), which now reads (i) the two ways of getting information and (ii) the effect of ‘naive’. Old 1(d) becomes 1(e) and old 1(e) becomes 1(f). Six letters, (a)–(f).

Question 3 mark split. This paper follows the specimen allocation exactly: 3(a) 2 × 1, 3(b) 3 × 1, 3(c) 5, 3(d) 10, totalling 20.

The source 2(a) carried four one-mark identification items and the 2027 3(a) has room for two. 2(a)(i) (R2) and 2(a)(ii) (R1), preserving source order and spanning both implicit and explicit retrieval as the specimen 3(a) does. The items not carried forward are:

- 2(a)(iii) — ‘thrown away without thought’ – ‘carelessly discarded’ [line 21] (R1)
- 2(a)(iv) — ‘allowed’ – ‘permitted’ [line 29] (R1)

Question 3(d). The 2027 language task prints a single extract and names a specific focus, where the source 2(d) referenced two paragraphs. Kept: Text C paragraph 3 (‘From this distance …’), 11 indicative points. Dropped: Text C paragraph 7 (‘Treasure hunting …’), 10 indicative points, dropped with the move to a single extract.

Table substitutions. Tables A, B, C, D, E, F and G below are taken unchanged from the official 2027 specimen mark scheme 0500/01/SP/27. No table has been reworded or rescaled.

Generated questions. 1(c), 1(d(ii)), 2(b) are new to this conversion. Each was tested for answerability against the insert alone before its indicative content was written. 2(b) targets the writer’s attitude, so it cannot be answered from content already creditable in the 2(a) summary.

Note: All examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated. Nonetheless, the content must be clearly related to and derived from the texts.

Question 1

This question tests reading assessment objectives R1, R2, R3, R4 and R5 (20 marks):

R1 demonstrate understanding of explicit meanings

R2 demonstrate understanding of implicit meanings and attitudes

R3 analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions, using appropriate support from the text

R4 demonstrate understanding of how writers achieve effects and influence readers

R5 select and use information for specific purposes.

Question	Answer	Marks
1(a)	What two things give people the idea to search for treasure, according to paragraph 1? Award 1 mark for both. • (modern-day) movies • (classic) adventure novel(s) (with fairytale ending(s))	1
1(b)(i)	Using your own words, explain what the text means by: '… to recover later.' (lines 6–7) Award 2 marks for full explanation (both strands). Award 1 mark for partial explanation. Credit alternatives explaining the whole phrase. • get back / find again / come back (to/for) / dig up again / retrieve / collect • at some point (in the future) / in the future / subsequently / afterwards / another time / after some time	2
1(b)(ii)	Using your own words, explain what the text means by: '… concealed around the globe.' (line 7). Award 2 marks for full explanation (both strands). Award 1 mark for partial explanation. Credit alternatives explaining the whole phrase. • hidden / secreted • throughout the world / in different places on earth / far and wide / all over the planet	2
1(c)	Reread paragraph 2 ('It makes sense … from a robbery.'). Using your own words, explain why the writer believes it is reasonable to think that treasure really was buried in the past. Award 1 mark for each idea, predominantly in own words, up to a maximum of 3. • banking did not exist in earlier centuries, so there was nowhere secure to deposit money or gold • valuables left out in the open were at risk of being stolen, so putting them underground was the sensible precaution • people who left an area could not take everything with them and intended to return, so burying goods was a temporary measure rather than a loss • thieves needed to get rid of stolen goods quickly, and a hastily dug hole served that purpose too • the range of containers the writer lists suggests this was an ordinary, widespread habit rather than something rare	3
1(d)(i)	Reread paragraph 3 ('So, how … of the treasure.'). Give two different ways treasure hunters should get the information they need to start their search. Award 1 mark for each idea, up to maximum of 2. • reading (old books and maps) / from books / from old maps • seek out locals / from locals / talking with local residents [reference to paying for information negates (misinterpretation)]	2
1(d)(ii)	Reread paragraph 3 ('So, how … of the treasure.'). Explain the effect of the word 'naive' (line 13). Award 1 mark for each idea, up to a maximum of 2. • suggests inexperience rather than stupidity — these hunters simply have not learned how the business works yet • implies they are too trusting and are being taken advantage of, paying out for information that may be worthless • the immediate contrast with 'those wiser' in the same sentence divides hunters into two classes and places the reader on one side of the line • the tone is mildly pitying rather than harsh, which turns the sentence into a warning to the reader not to make the same mistake • the inverted commas around 'information' reinforce it, hinting that what is being sold may not be information at all	2

1(e)(i)	Reread paragraphs 4 and 5 ('Treasure hunters … work again."'). Identify two reasons why people who have been inspired to hunt for treasure might not set out straight away. Award 1 mark for each idea, up to a maximum of 2. • takes time to compile information / do not have (all) the information they need / do not have (all) the knowledge needed / need to gather all the information • do not have the money / takes time to get fund(ing) / need to save up money / requires funds • do not have a solid lead	2
1(e)(ii)	Reread paragraphs 4 and 5 ('Treasure hunters … work again."'). Explain why some people might not be persuaded to take up treasure hunting by Alex Rohn's claims. Award 1 mark for each idea, up to a maximum of 3. • time it could take / have to persist / imprecise timescale (sooner or later) • just find a few coins / finds are of little value • query Alex's credibility / as Alex has not been successful enough to give up work / book title unconvincing / Alex is still a delivery driver so can't have all the secrets to offer / age suggests Alex may have spent years doing it already without success	3
1(f)	Reread paragraph 6 ('If your heart's … equipment.'). Using your own words, explain why now may not be a good time to take up the hobby of treasure hunting. Award 1 mark for each idea, predominantly in own words, up to a maximum of 3. Answers which are entirely in the words of the text should not be credited. • logistics are off-putting / hard to access • may not be anything left / treasure hunters may have found everything already / too many people have already looked / the only treasure left is difficult to find • need expensive equipment / have to use high tech equipment	3

Question 2(a) tests the following reading assessment objectives (10 marks):

R1 demonstrate understanding of explicit meanings

R2 demonstrate understanding of implicit meanings and attitudes

R5 select and use information for specific purposes.

This question also tests the following writing assessment objectives (5 marks):

W1 articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined

W2 organise and structure facts, ideas and opinions for effect

W3 use a range of vocabulary and sentence structures appropriate to context.

Question 2(b) tests the following reading assessment objectives (5 marks):

R2 demonstrate understanding of implicit meanings and attitudes

R3 analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions, using appropriate support from the text.

Question	Answer	Marks
2(a)	According to Text B, what concerns, worries and objections might there be about the hobby of metal detecting? You must use continuous writing (not note form) and use your own words as far as possible. Your summary should not be more than 120 words. Up to 10 marks are available for the content of your answer and up to 5 marks for the quality of your writing. Use the Marking Criteria for Question 2(a) (Table A, Reading and Table B, Writing). INDICATIVE READING CONTENT Candidates may refer to any of the points below: • negative image of the hobby / (seen as) boring / waste of time • (worry about) breaking law(s) / not allowed / illegal • some detectorists are irresponsible / not all are responsible • safety concerns for detectorists / dangerous to do it • damage to historic sites / damage cultural heritage sites • complicated rules / rules vary (locally) / (enthusiasts think) rules too strict / too many rules • more people taking up the hobby (so potentially more damage) / fad / fashion / just influenced by tv / being promoted as harmless • removing objects from context / losing valuable information • restrictions not strong enough (archaeologists think) / restrictions should be stronger • competitive by nature so unlikely to follow rules / potential to make lots of money so more likely to bend the rules • creates trip hazards for others in public spaces • damages plants which need protecting	15

Marking criteria for Question 2(a)

Table A, Reading

Use the following table to give a mark out of 10 for Reading. This question tests assessment objectives R1, R2 and R5.

Level	Marks	Description
5	9–10	• An effective response that demonstrates understanding of a wide range of relevant ideas and is consistently well-focused on the text and task. • Relevant ideas are skilfully selected to demonstrate an overview.
4	7–8	• A mostly effective response that demonstrates a competent understanding of a good range of relevant ideas and is consistently well-focused on the text and task. • Relevant ideas are carefully selected and there is some evidence of an overview.
3	5–6	• A partially effective response that demonstrates understanding of a range of relevant ideas with occasional loss of focus on text or task. • Some evidence of selection of relevant ideas but may include excess material.
2	3–4	• A basic response that demonstrates general understanding of relevant ideas and is sometimes focused on text and task. • Some indiscriminate selection of ideas.
1	1–2	• A response that demonstrates limited understanding of relevant ideas and shows limited focus on text and task. • Little evidence of selection of ideas.
0	0	No creditable content.

Table B, Writing

Use the following table to give a mark out of 5 for Writing. This question tests assessment objectives W1, W2 and W3.

Level	Marks	Description
3	4–5	• Expression is clear and fluent. • Organisation is effective. • Concise use of a range of appropriate vocabulary.
2	2–3	• Expression is generally clear. • Organisation is sometimes effective. • Areas of concision but some reliance on the words of the text.
1	1	• Expression lacks clarity. • Organisation is limited. • Includes lifted sections.
0	0	No creditable content.

Question	Answer	Marks
2(b)	Assess the writer's attitude towards metal detecting and towards other detectorists. Use three details from Text B to support your answer. Use the Marking Criteria for Question 2(b) (Table C, Reading). Responses might use the following: • defensive about his own conduct (para 1): the clipped 'Just for the record, I'm not and never would' breaks off the list of other people's reactions to insist on his innocence, and dropping the verb after 'never would' makes the denial sound indignant rather than merely factual • able to laugh at himself (para 1): he repeats the charge that detecting 'just confirms I'm boring' without troubling to rebut it, which suggests he finds the stereotype more amusing than wounding • insists on the integrity of the hobby's mainstream (para 2): the absolute 'only ever pursue their hobby legally' makes lawfulness part of the definition of a 'responsible' detectorist rather than merely what most of them happen to do • shares in the pleasure of discovery (para 3): 'congratulatory', 'the wonderful things found' and 'extraordinary sums' adopt the warm register of the newspaper reports instead of standing back from it, and 'wowed audiences worldwide' endorses the programme's appeal rather than questioning it • affectionate about the unglamorous reality (para 3): the picture of 'two old friends' spending 'hours, weeks, years pacing up and down in mud' is fond rather than mocking, and the escalating time-scale makes patience, not profit, the point of the hobby • aligns himself with the community's suspicion (para 5): the parenthetical '(rightly)' interrupts the sentence to confirm that the wariness is well-founded, showing he shares it rather than merely reporting it	5

Table C, Reading

Use the following table to give a mark out of 5 for Reading. This question tests assessment objectives R2 and R3.

Level	Marks	Description
3	4–5	Clear understanding of the writer's attitude with relevant support from the text.
2	2–3	Some understanding of the writer's attitude with some supporting detail.
1	1	Limited understanding of the writer's attitude.
0	0	No creditable content.

Question 3

This question tests reading assessment objectives R1, R2 and R4 (20 marks):

R1 demonstrate understanding of explicit meanings

R2 demonstrate understanding of implicit meanings and attitudes

R4 demonstrate understanding of how writers achieve effects and influence readers.

Question	Answer	Marks
3(a)(i)	Identify a word or phrase from the text which suggests the same idea as the words in bold: The boys and their mother have to pass through and around the delicate hills of sand to get access to the beach. Accept cloze responses that repeat all / some of the question stem with the correct answer. • (and) weave (between the) [line 7]	1
3(a)(ii)	The goods carried by the ship that sank were never found, but the people on board were saved. Accept cloze responses that repeat all / some of the question stem with the correct answer. • (Its) crew (was/were) rescued (but) [line 10]	1
3(b)(i)	Using your own words, explain what the writer means by each of the words in bold: On this dazzling afternoon, cycling along the sea's edge is exhilarating and our laughter sends seagulls scattering skywards. The new path we're following ends abruptly and we're stranded on the wrong side of a channel of water. dazzling • bright / brilliant / blazing / extremely sunny / (sun) shining / sparkling / radiant / stunningly beautiful / scintillating	1
3(b)(ii)	exhilarating • thrilling / exciting / energising	1
3(b)(iii)	abruptly • suddenly / unexpectedly / without warning / immediately	1

Question	Answer	Marks
3(c)	Use one example from the text below to explain how the writer suggests her feelings as she attempts to cross the channel of water on her bicycle. Use your own words in your explanation. I show the boys that, like life, if you approach it full on, you can most times power through on sheer determination. But today the channel's deeper than it looks. I've misjudged it massively. My bike comes to a graceless halt midway, balances briefly, then falls flat on its side, depositing me spectacularly in fifty centimetres of water. Use the Marking Criteria for Question 3(c) (Table D, Reading). The explanation must be predominantly in the candidate's own words. Responses might use the following: • like life, if you approach it full on, you can most times power through on sheer determination: should not hesitate but throw yourself into things; grit and hard work brings results; utter resolve; fuelled by her intent and inner strength; need to commit to succeed in life / in this task; talking about crossing the channel but seeing parallels to life – life has been hard; optimism / self-belief • misjudged it massively: made an error; hugely underestimated; did not calculate correctly, got it completely wrong, serious, surprise, sudden realisation may have been overconfident • comes to a graceless halt midway, balances briefly, then falls flat on its side: stops in the centre of the channel; inelegant stop; pause before toppling over; realises she looks silly; self-deprecating; sees the humour in the moment • depositing me spectacularly in fifty centimetres of water: landing her in the water; no control over the action; as if being put in her place/abandoned there; making a show of her; slightly embarrassed; dramatic, hilarious, harmless fun	5

Table D, Reading

Use the following table to give a mark out of 5 for Reading. This question tests assessment objectives R1, R2 and R4.

Level	Marks	Description
3	4–5	Clear understanding of the writer's use of language.
2	2–3	Some understanding of the writer's use of language.
1	1	Limited understanding of the writer's use of language.
0	0	No creditable content.

Question	Answer	Marks
3(d)	Choose three powerful words or phrases from the extract below to analyse how the writer uses language to describe the shipwreck. 'From this distance it looks unreal, like some elaborate prop on a sweeping stage of sand. The children race towards its magic. Getting closer, I experience the same thrill. I know that these sands shift, playing an endless game of hide-and-seek. Even so, it's hard to believe this has been here, buried and invisible: a wooden vessel, rotting and exposed, its curved wooden spurs like the ribcage of some enormous extinct beast, picked clean of its flesh by the sea. The boys clamber on board like marauding cartoon pirates. This wreck is an astonishing sight.' Write about 200 to 250 words. Use the Marking Criteria for Question 3(d) (Table E, Reading). Notes on the task This question is marked for the ability to select powerful or unusual words and for an understanding of ways in which the language is effective. Expect responses to provide words / phrases that carry connotations additional to general meaning. Mark holistically for the overall quality of the response, not for the number of words chosen, bearing in mind that for the higher bands there should be a range of choices to demonstrate an understanding of how language works, and that this should include the ability to explain images. It is the quality of the analysis that attracts marks. Do not deduct marks for inaccurate statements; simply ignore them. Candidates can make any sensible comment, but only credit those that are relevant to the correct meanings of the words in the context and that have some validity. Alternative acceptable explanations should be credited. Credit comments on effects created by non-vocabulary choices such as grammar / syntax and punctuation devices. These must be additional to comments on vocabulary. Only credit comments on stylistic effect where these are explicitly linked to choices.	10

Question	Answer	Marks
3(d)	Responses might focus on words or phrases from the following: • it looks unreal, like some elaborate prop: as if this is a make-believe ship; an object prepared for a play or film; detailed representation; deliberately crafted; as if pretending to be something it isn't • sweeping stage of sand: large expanse; impressively wide beach; grand theatrical scenery, telling a story • race towards its magic: sprinting; run forwards, excited, drawn by its power; eager to be part of it • getting closer, I experience the same thrill: excitement builds up more slowly for her; vicariously enjoying the experience / shares same childlike reaction • these sands shift, playing an endless game of hide-and-seek: sands conceal and reveal different objects; as if teasing them and enjoying it • buried and invisible: objects when they are under the sand cannot be seen; as if the sand/nature has the power to make them disappear • rotting and exposed: the ship is degraded and unprotected; will inevitably disintegrate; decaying, like it was once alive, gruesome • curved wooden spurs like the ribcage of some enormous extinct beast: the shape of the boat's frame is rounded; exposed bones; ancient; like the skeleton of a large sea creature / dinosaur that no longer exists • picked clean of its flesh by the sea: nothing left of the external fittings of the ship; sea has eaten it alive; predatory power of oceans/nature • clamber on board like marauding cartoon pirates: excited, quick ungainly movement to climb on the boat; amusing image as if acting out stories/films they have seen • astonishing sight: incredible to see; incongruous, unexpected; awe-inspiring

Marking Criteria for Question 3(d)

Table E, Reading: Analysing how writers achieve effects

Use the following table to give a mark out of 10 for Reading. This question tests assessment objectives R1, R2 and R4.

Level	Marks	Description
5	9–10	• Analysis adds meaning and associations to precisely selected words/phrases and demonstrates the writer's reasons for using them. • Explains images with some precision and imagination. • Clear understanding of the writer's use of language.
4	7–8	• Some analysis of carefully selected words and phrases offers secure explanations of meanings within the context of the text. • Begins to identify and explain images. • Some understanding of the writer's use of language.
3	5–6	• Chooses appropriate words and phrases. • Mostly explains meanings of words. • Attempts to suggest and explain effects are basic or general.
2	3–4	• Chooses words and phrases that communicate less effectively within the context of the text. • Explanations repeat the language of the original and/or are general, slight or only partially effective. • Correctly identifies linguistic devices.
1	1–2	• Choice of words is rarely relevant. • Comments offer limited evidence of understanding.
0	0	No creditable content.

Question 4

This question tests reading assessment objectives R1, R2, R3 and R5 (10 marks):

R1 demonstrate understanding of explicit meanings

R2 demonstrate understanding of implicit meanings and attitudes

R3 analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions, using appropriate support from the text

R5 select and use information for specific purposes.

and writing assessment objectives W1, W2, W3 and W4 (10 marks):

W1 articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined

W2 organise and structure facts, ideas and opinions for effect

W3 use a range of vocabulary and sentence structures appropriate to context

W4 use language appropriate to audience and purpose.

Question	Answer	Marks
4	You are Charlie. Years later you work for an organisation which protects natural environments. As part of your work, you give a speech to persuade young people to protect your local area. In your speech you: • describe how you spent your afternoons on the beach as a young boy and what you enjoyed best about those activities looking back • explain what you learned from your mother about the beach, its history and its people • suggest how and why you were inspired to protect natural environments and what you think young people can do to help this beach. Write the words of the speech. Base your speech on what you have read in Text C, but be careful to use your own words. Address each of the three bullets. Write about 250 to 300 words. Up to 10 marks are available for reading and up to 10 marks for writing. Use the Marking Criteria for Question 4 (Table F, Reading and Table G, Writing). Notes on the task Candidates should select ideas from the text (see below) and develop them relevantly, supporting what they write with details from the text. Look for an appropriate register for the genre, and a clear and balanced response which covers the three areas of the question, is well sequenced, and is in the candidate's own words. Annotate A1 for references to how Charlie spent his afternoons on the beach as a young boy and what he enjoyed best about those activities looking back. Annotate A2 for references to what Charlie learned from his mother about the beach, its history and its people. Annotate A3 for references to how and why Charlie was inspired to protect natural environments and what he thinks young people can do to help this beach.	20

Marking Criteria for Question 4

Table F, Reading

Use the following table to give a mark out of 10 for Reading. This question tests assessment objectives R1, R2, R3 and R5.

Level	Marks	Description
5	9–10	• The response reveals a thorough evaluation and analysis of the text. • A wide range of ideas is applied. • Developed ideas are sustained and well related to the text. • There is supporting detail throughout, which is well integrated into the response, contributing to a strong sense of purpose and approach. • All three bullets are well covered. • A consistent and convincing voice is used.
4	7–8	• The response demonstrates a competent reading of the text with some evidence of basic evaluation or analysis. • A good range of ideas is evident. • Some ideas are developed but the ability to sustain them may not be consistent. • There is frequent, helpful supporting detail, contributing to a clear sense of purpose. • All three bullets are covered. • An appropriate voice is used.
3	5–6	• The response shows that the text has been read reasonably well. • A range of straightforward ideas is offered. • Opportunities for development are rarely taken. • Supporting detail is present but there may be some mechanical use of the text. • There is uneven focus on the bullets. • The voice is plain.
2	3–4	• There is some evidence of general understanding of the main ideas, but the response lacks focus on the text or the task. • Some brief, straightforward reference to the text is made. • There may be some reliance on lifting from the text. • Limited focus on the bullets. • The voice might be inappropriate.
1	1–2	• There is very limited evidence of engagement with the text. • Content is either insubstantial or unselective. • There is little realisation of the need to modify material from the text.
0	0	No creditable content.
